

DRASTIC SUGAR RULES GO INTO EFFECT JULY 1ST

Columbus, O. June 28.—To provide for the equitable distribution of sugar throughout the country the United States Food Administration announces new regulations which are more drastic and far-reaching than any yet promulgated.

Retail grocers, all public eating places, including boarding houses who take care of 25 persons or more, bakers, as well as candy makers, soft drink manufacturers and commercial canners cannot buy sugar after July 1st except upon certificate, which they must secure from the Federal Food Administrator for the State.

The new rules require them to furnish to the Food Administration a statement showing the sugar they have on hand and restrict them as to the amount they can purchase and use.

Household consumers are not directly rationed but they cannot buy more than two pounds at a time if they live in a town or city, and five pounds if they live in the country, except for canning purposes. They are asked to restrict their consumption to three pounds per month per person. They must not have on hand more than a 30-day supply.

"A number of causes have accumulated to make our sugar position more difficult than we could have anticipated at the beginning of the year," says a statement issued by United States Food Administrator Hoover, in promulgating the new rules:

Increased shipping needed by our growing army in France which has necessitated the curtailment of sugar transportation.

Some of the accessible sugar producing areas have proved a less yield than was anticipated, such as certain West India Islands.

The domestic beet and Louisiana crops have fallen below anticipation. Destruction of beet sugar factories in the battle area of France and Italy.

Loss of sugar due to submarines. It is estimated that there will be available from all sources about July 1, 600,000 tons of sugar for United States consumption during the last half of the present year. This is based upon the maintenance of the present meager Allied ration.

The improvement in shipping conditions would, of course, relieve this situation as quantities of sugar are in unavailable markets.

"This supply of 1,600,000 tons of sugar necessitates a considerable reduction in our consumption," says a statement issued by Mr. Hoover, "To provide three pounds per person per month for the household use, to take care of our army and navy and to provide for the necessary preservation of fruit, milk, etc., will require about 1,500,000 tons for the six months."

"A household consumption of three pounds per month per person, together with the special allowance for home canning means a reduction of some 25 per cent in these branches of consumption from normal but it is still nearly double the ration in the Allied countries and is ample for every economic use."

The less essential uses of sugar, including confectioneries, soft drink manufacturers and tobacco manufacturers will be hit hardest by new rule. Candy and soft drink manufacturers will be limited to 50 per cent of the average amount of sugar used during the months of July, August and September, 1917.

Ice cream manufacturers will be entitled to 75 per cent.

Commercial canners will be given certificates for their necessary requirements, but any re-sale of sugar by them is prohibited except under the express direction of the Food Administrator and any sugar on hand at the end of the season must be placed at the disposal of the Food Administration.

Public eating places will be issued certificates upon the basis of three pounds for each 90 meals served.

Bakers will receive certificates for 70 per cent of the average amount used during July, August and September, 1917, or alternating 70 per cent of that used during the month of June, 1918.

Washington, June 28.—"Please send one recipient for drinking water, and 100 yards of heavy women's clothing."

Now, what could one do with such a request?

But is only one of the many puzzles coming into the American Red Cross warehouse in France, workers report.

After they have administered first aid to such requisitions as these, which are samples of the odd ones, the clerical workers beg for vacations in the front line trenches:

Round towels; cardboard filing board; cheap knives; brushes, dog-grass; overall coats khaki for women; board for typewriter; snuff-box; white chattron; flexible exercise books; woven wrapping paper; rompers for men.

ACTION ON DRAFT AGES MAY BE HELD UP SEVERAL MONTHS

Washington, June 28.—Opposition of the administration to proposals before the senate for immediate extension of the selective draft age limit, voiced today by Secretary Baker and General March, chief of staff, before the senate military committee, apparently served to increase the senate controversy over an amendment by Senator Fall, of New Mexico, of the $12,000,000,000 army bill, proposing that the age limits be 20 and 40 instead of 21 and 31 years.

Today the fight was resumed with a final vote expected before the end of the week.

Before the senate reconvened yesterday Secretary Baker, General March and Provost Marshal Crowder, who went to the capitol at the request of members of the military committee spent nearly three hours behind closed doors with the committee. The secretary and chief of staff said legislation to change the limits should be referred for 60 or 90 days, as enough men for the existing army program are available, and a new and enlarged army program is being prepared now for submission to congress within a few months.

Debate on the question broke out anew in the senate when Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, chairman of the military committee, told the senate of the opinions given the committee that General Crowder acquiesced in the policy of his superiors and that the military committee by a majority vote had decided to oppose the proposed draft legislation as an addition to the army bill.

Senator Fall and other adherents of the Fall amendment for changing the draft ages, declaring that the department's information showing that the class one registrants would be exhausted in a few months at most, warranted extension at this time by congress of the draft age below 21 and above 31.

Senator Chamberlain, although favoring immediate legislation, announced that he would abide by the department's recommendations and oppose the Fall amendment while Senators Hitchcock, Nebraska, McKeller, of Tennessee, and others urged that the legislation go over. Senator Hitchcock indicated that he would not press his substitute resolution to extend the draft ages.

AUSTRIAN PEACE FEELERS FAIL

London, June 28.—Another Austrian attempt to throw out peace feelers via Switzerland has failed, it was reported here today in press dispatches from Zurich.

These dispatches stated that Austria-Hungary, through an official representative in Switzerland during the past few days, had attempted to discover the allied standpoint regarding "important questions."

The emissary failed completely and returned to Vienna.

PLANS PILGRIMAGE TO THE HOLY LAND

The less essential uses of sugar, including confectioneries, soft drink manufacturers and tobacco manufacturers will be hit hardest by new rule. Candy and soft drink manufacturers will be limited to 50 per cent of the average amount of sugar used during the months of July, August and September, 1917.

Former Czar of Russia Reported Dead

Deposed Russian Czar, consort and heir and (lower left) Grand Duke Michael, the new regent.

London, June 28.—The first announcement approaching official confirmation of the death of Nicholas Romanoff, the former Czar, was received here today.

The Frankfurter Zeitung, according to the Exchange Telegraph Copenhagen correspondent, declares that Foreign Minister Tschitcherine wired from Moscow to the Russian minister at Darmstadt, Germany, that Nicholas had been killed.

EDUCATORS ARE SENT TO FRANCE

Cleveland, June 28.—Dr. Frank E. Spaulding, superintendent of Cleveland schools, will sail for France in August as a member of a commission of three representative American educators, to establish a school and university system through the Y. M. C. A. for American soldiers during the war and the period of demobilization.

The undertaking has the backing of General Pershing.

Thousands of soldiers will have the opportunity to continue studies broken off by America's entry into the war. Others will find it possible to take up studies perhaps neglected at home.

Representative Commercial, Industrial and professional courses will be taught.

Phelps Stokes, secretary of Yale university has charge of the Preliminary work.

ELEVEN KILLED IN PARIS AIR RAID

Paris, June 28.—Eleven persons were killed and fourteen injured in last night's air raid, it was officially announced today.

In addition, the Matin declared that great material damage was done. The enemy planes which arrived at the city over different routes, were subjected to the most violent gun fire. Premier Clemenceau visited the ruins today.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE STILL UNSETTLED

Detroit, June 28.—No settlement of the seamen's strike here was apparent on the second day of the walk-out which tied up steamers operating between this city and Cleveland, and Detroit and Buffalo.

Because some of the men holding able seamen's certificates are not receiving seamen's wages the local council called the strike, Wednesday night.

THOUSANDS TAKE PART IN STRIKE

Copenhagen, June 28.—Thousands of persons are participating in the general strike at Budapest, according to dispatches from that city, today.

Socialist leaders have formed a workers' council and have demanded dissolution of parliament and adoption of the original electoral bill.

The strikers continue their demand that the government do its utmost to obtain peace soon.

FORMER D. A. R. HEAD HELD UNDER $1,000 BOND

New York, June 28.—Mrs. William Cumming Story, former head of the Daughters of the American Revolution, charged with petit and attempted grand larceny, in connection with certain affairs of the National Relief Society, is under $1,000 bail today, to enter pleas July 2.

VON HINDENBURG SEEKS TO MAKE SACRIFICES OF VON KUEHLMANN

BY J. W. T. MASON.

New York, June 28.—Efforts to sacrifice Foreign Minister Von Kuehlmann to the failure of Von Hindenburg, to win the war for Germany, cannot restore to the German people the confidence in the conquering invincibility of the Kaiser's army.

"If Kuehlmann is forced to resign for telling the Reichstag that peace cannot be won, on the battlefield," all Germany will know Hindenburg's frantic ruthlessness does not end in the trenches, but is used even to terrorize cabinet members at home. The growth of that realization will make Hindenburg's position increasingly precarious with the prolongation of the war. Every new failure in Hindenburg's bloody pursuit of victory will recall to Germans the solemn warning that "peace cannot be won on the battlefield."

Von Kuehlmann's phrase sounds like the death knell of German militarism, no matter what happens to Von Kuehlmann. Now that the secret is out, the more Hindenburg tries to prove the effectiveness of the military machine, the greater will be the final smash.

There is a certain mystery about Von Kuehlmann's action. Whether he chose his words alone, or whether he consulted with the Kaiser, Chancellor Von Hertling and the military leaders cannot be positively known. It is probable, however, that there was a preliminary consultation. But neither the Kaiser nor the militarists can have realized the profound significance of a Von Kuehlmann's declaration.

Their attention doubtless was centered upon enticing the allies into a peace conference, with the cards stacked.

Like most conspirators, they used the most plausible argument for their purpose forgetting the reverse consequences of inadvertently blurring out the truth. This is probably the explanation of Von Kuehlmann's revelation.

FOUR KILLED IN AIRPLANE RAID

Amsterdam, June 28.—Four persons were killed and 12 injured in the allied air raid over Saarbrücken Tuesday, according to a Berlin despatch today.

U. S. SOCIALISTS WHO WANT AMERICA TO WIN ATTEND LONDON LABOR MEET

Left to right: John Spargo, Charles E. Russell (below) and A. M. Simons. These prominent American Socialists, who, unlike the majority of the members of the party want to see the allies win the war, have gone to London to attend the conference called by the British Labor party. They will also visit France, Italy and Switzerland.

RENEWAL OF GERMAN OFFENSIVE IS EXPECTED TO BE LAUNCHED AT ANY MOMENT TO OFFSET ITALIAN VICTORY

Washington, June 28.—The expected Teuton offensive on the western front is nearly ready to burst forth again, according to information reaching the war department today.

Apparently, it is being hastened by the Austrian failure in Italy and likewise by Von Kuehlmann's recent remarks casting doubt on the military leaders.

It is believed here that the Teuton chiefs will strike to offset the Austrian defeat and the Kuehlmann speech by making another heavy push in the west—a desperate attempt to achieve a majority victory.

With the British Armies in France, June 28.—Hindenburg's delay in resuming his west front offensive is mystifying allied leaders, but is occasioning them no worry. Our ability to stop a new drive increases proportionately as he holds back.

ASTOUNDING rumors are in circulation concerning Hindenburg's reasons. These are stories of a strange new disease devastating whole divisions thus necessitating postponement of the drive. Apparently the only foundation for this is the prevalence of what the Germans call "Flander's Grip." This is not serious and lasts only a few days though accompanied sometimes by a high fever. Another misleading rumor is that dissatisfaction is rampant in the German army and that the Hun command is afraid to order an attack.

It appears to be true that the Germans are beginning to realize that their battle plans are less God-inspired than they had been led to believe but their discipline is such they still march when told to.

A third explanation is that the weather and ground are declared to be unfavorable for offensive maneuvers.

Hindenburg's delay is due to infinitely deeper reasons. Despite the vast number of men at his disposal—he will never have more than he has now, even with the arrival of released prisoners from Russia. He must carve out victory or defeat with what he has.

Seeing that his forces are dwindling, while the allied troops are increasing he is unable to make a move without weighing every chance and calculating the cost in men.

Hindenburg must play his grand-son. All the stakes are on the table.

LACK OF STRONG RUSSIAN PARTY DELAYS AMERICAN AID OVER THERE

Washington, June 28.—"All branches of the Slav race should be completely freed of German and Austrian rule."

This is the declaration of the U. S. Government, made today through Secretary Lansing.

Washington, June 28.—Delay in American aid to Russia is due to lack of a strong government or party there with which to deal.

Government officials said today that this situation is proving one of the main obstacles as it means that any faction ignored by the U. S. would probably turn upon Americans bitterly and perhaps dangerously. The government is anxious to avoid a reaction that would turn a large part of the Russians to Germany.

The Bolsheviks are not powerful enough to recognize or deal with, it is held. Kernsky is planning to come here, it is expected he will attempt to get United States backing to put him again in power. But there is a feeling that Kernsky, even with American support, would not accomplish rehabilitation of Russia.

Despite the complications presented by the Russian chaos, the president is going ahead with his idea of assisting the nation and keeping it from succumbing entirely to German control.

State department reports reflect an extremely grave condition in Russia, particularly as to food.

FIGHTING AGAIN REPORTED NORMAL ON ALL FRONTS

London, June 28.—Fighting activity on all fronts is again normal, it was indicated in over-night official statements.

The Italian war office reports slight advances on the Adige at Col Del Rosso and Caposile, Vienna declared all efforts were frustrated.

Paris reported only artillery activity, while London detailed successful patrol encounters.

The German war office evidently as preliminary to further destruction of Rheims Cathedral announced that allied artillery observers had "again" been seen on the Cathedral.

"On the east bank of the Meuse, we carried out successful reconnaissance north of St. Mihiel (where Americans are in line)" Berlin said. "A strong attack was repulsed."

HERTLING CALLED TO HEADQUARTERS

Copenhagen, June 28.—Imperial Chancellor Hertling has been called to German headquarters for an important conference, it was learned here today.

This news followed word from Berlin that Foreign Minister Von Kuehlmann probably would not resign immediately, and would at least remain until the Rumanian peace and eastern questions had been further cleared up.

Following Kuehlmann's speech to the Reichstag, in which he said peace would not come through military effort, the Kaiser was reported to be furious at him.

Summoning of Hertling to headquarters after word of Kuehlmann's intention to remain in office has been circulated, may indicate the Kaiser intends to take a further hand in the matter.

ARE YOU BUYING W. S. S.

Washington, June 28.—This is War Savings Day. So is every day, but today, by proclamation of the secretary of the treasury is especially set aside for culmination of the greatest organized effort for sale of W. S. S. yet undertaken throughout the nation. The income of the government from the little green stamps will be more steady after today, as millions of people have pledged themselves to buy stamps regularly.

RACE DRIVERS WILL RECOVER.

Akron, June 28.—Vance Nuckols, of Cleveland, and Eddie McGrath, well known race horse drivers, injured in a smash at Fountain Park track, yesterday afternoon, will recover.

Nuckols was unconscious six hours. He sustained two severe scalp wounds and a concussion of the brain. McGrath sustained a sprained arm and bruises.

SUFFRAGE LEADERS FORCED TO RETREAT IN SENATE FIGHT

Washington, June 28.—Forced to retreat in the face of great odds, senate suffrage leaders today had no thought of surrender. They already are at work lining up votes to pass the suffrage amendment in spite of the powerful opposition which yesterday forced them to defer action.

The only way the suffragists can win is to convert at least two more senators to suffrage. This looked impossible today but suffragists do not despair.

They will call up the amendment as soon as the army and fortification bills are disposed of. The situation then will be exactly as now Anti's will refuse to allow a vote unless suffragists agree to provide a pair for Senator Ollie James, anti-who is ill.

If suffragists arrange a pair for Sen. Ollie James they're beaten they admit, inasmuch as they will have to pair two men with James and that means that his opposition will neutralize the support of two senators. Aside from the hope that they may be able to win some new support, suffragists have but one plan to filibuster and keep congress from recessing unless the senate adopts the amendment.

But, it was admitted today, it would be impossible to hold a quorum of the senate under such conditions and recess probably would be forced in spite of anything the suffragists might do.

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, June 28.—General Pershing today reported 56 casualties from the expeditionary forces in France, divided as follows:

Killed in action, 24; died of wounds, 4; died of disease, 3; wounded severely, 22; wounded (degree undetermined), 2; and prisoner, 1.

Ohio men in the list are as follows: Killed in action, Lieut. K. H. Eymann, Lancaster; J. Suski, Cleveland.

Wounded severely, R. Patch, West Toledo.

MARINE CASUALTIES

Washington, June 28.—Marine casualties reported today numbered 50, divided as follows:

FRENCH MAKE PROGRESS.

Paris, June 28.—French troops made some progress and improved their positions in Seneca woods, northwest of Montdidier last night, capturing thirty prisoners, the war office announced today.

THEATERS

.....Bijou.....

In many ways does the silent drama better the spoken stage production, and one of these ways is clearly exemplified in the new picture which comes to the Bijou Friday and Saturday, "The Clever Mrs. Fairfax." This screen superiority is in the dual role played by Julian Eltinge, feminine impersonator, which gives a wonderful comparison of Eltinge as the man and Eltinge the woman.

This story he has been selected to interpret is a delightful comedy-drama and is well known to many readers who have already followed it in story style. The picture will be shown Friday night and Saturday matinee and night.

The enticing serial "The House of Hate," with its each succeeding episode full of deeper and darker mystery, will be shown at the Orphium Saturday as the feature play of a program filled with good things.

WORKERS HARD AT WORK SELLING THRIFT STAMPS

The homing pigeon sent to Xenia Friday morning by H. P. Wolf, State Director of the War Savings Campaign, was released at 2:35 o'clock, Friday afternoon and carried back to Columbus the glad tidings that Greene County is at last awake and is making things hum. The little messenger was liberated Mrs. Printz, wife of Postmaster Printz of Clifton, and carried this message to Mr. Wolf: "Greene County, Cash, $9,244. Pledges, $34,445."

Workers in the Thrift Stamp Campaign are off.

Daybreak Friday morning introduced National Thrift Day and the beginning of the one-day campaign to sell war Savings Stamps which is expected to push Greene County well forward in the list of Ohio counties in the big Savings Drive.

Representatives appointed by County Chairman, M. J. Hartley in each township throughout the county, were on their toes from the starting whistle and are campaigning vigorously today to make the world safe for democracy. Township school houses are being kept open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the evening by these men, who will tend to accepting the pledges of the people of the township.

In the city, County Chairman Hartley will have direct charge of the drive, assisted by H. M. Garfield, but stamps can be purchased from any mail man or pledges will be either taken by those in charge of the drive or they can be made at the postoffice.

Mr. Hartley is expecting a carrier pigeon from Columbus which is supposed to be used to transfer the news of the outcome of the local drive to the state headquarters, as soon as the results are determined. The pigeon will not be used, however, unless good news can be reported. Whether the pigeon will be used or not then, depends upon the standard you set upon your patriotism and the number of stamps you purchase today.

THE KAISER TYPIFIED AS SATAN BY A GERMAN MAGNATE

Germany's Greatest Financier Revealed in the Act of Blackmailing Hun Capital in 1912 for War Funds.

By J. J. BOSDAN.

There were, I have heard, promises made of a more personal character. For example, the "conquest of England" was to be made the occasion of bestowing upon certain favored and wealthy men some of the most desirable residences in England, but of this I have no actual proof.

Every trade and interest was appealed to. Huge indemnities were, of course, to be levied on the conquered nations, and the fortunate German manufacturers were, by this means, practically to be relieved of taxation for years after the war.

These promises were not vaguely given. They were made definitely by Bethmann-Hollweg on behalf of the Emperor to gatherings of business men and in many cases to individuals.

I have mentioned the promise of a grant of 30,000 acres in Australia that was made to me. Promises of a similar kind were made at least 20 other persons at special interviews with the chancellor, and all particulars of these promises were entered in a book at the trades department.

But not only were these promises made by the chancellor; they were confirmed by the Emperor, who on three occasions addressed large private gatherings of business men in Berlin, Munich and Cassel in 1912 and 1913. I was at one of these gatherings. The Emperor's speech was one of the most flowery orations I have listened to, and so profuse were the promises he made that were even half of what he promised to be fulfilled, most of the commercial men in Germany would become rich beyond the dreams of avarice.

The emperor was particularly enthusiastic over the coming German conquest of India. "India" he said "is occupied by the British. It is in a way governed by the British, but it is by no means completely governed by them. We shall conquer it, and the vast revenues that the British allow to be taken by Indian princes will, after our conquest, flow in a golden stream into the fatherland. In all the richest lands of the earth the German flag will fly over every other flag."

Take it Or Leave It

Finally the Emperor concluded: "I am making you no promises that cannot be redeemed, and they shall be redeemed if you are now prepared to make the sacrifices which are necessary to secure the position that our country must and shall occupy in the world. He who refuses to help is a traitor to the fatherland; he who helps willingly and generously will have his rich reward."

All sounded, I admit, tempting and alluring, and though there were some who viewed rather dubiously the prospect of Germany being able to conquer the world in a year, the majority of business and commercial men agreed to support the Hohenzollern war plans. Most of them have since wished they had never paid any attention to them.

According to the promises of the Hohenzollern, victory was to have been achieved in December 1915 and the promises made to myself and other commercial men in Germany when our money for the Kaiser's war chest was wanted were to have been redeemed.

But this is what happened in reality. In December of 1916, the chancellor, Bethmann-Hollweg, began to have interviews with business men. The purpose of these interviews again was to get more money from them. Guarantees were asked from 75 business men in Germany, including myself, that they would undertake to subscribe $5,200,000,000. I declined to give this guaranty; so did some others. I was then favored with a private interview with Bethmann-Hollweg's private secretary, who told me that if I declined to give money I would lose a contract I had with the war office. But not only that—I was threatened with the practical ruin of my business if I did not give the guaranty.

The Kaiser a Blackmailer.

I described this demand as blackmail of the worst sort and refused to guarantee a mark to the war loan. Two months later, I lost my contract, and the greater part of my business has been taken over at a figure that means confiscation. Moreover, I am not to get paid until after the war, but am to receive 4 per cent on the purchase price. Every man who declined to promise a subscription to the amount he was asked has been treated in the same manner.

The majority of men, however, preferred to pay to being ruined, and so the Hohenzollerns in the main got their way. But, apart from the blackmailing of men into the Hohenzollern war chest, let us see how the Hohenzollerns' promises are working out. A circular was sent out last March to a large number of business men by the foreign trade department which contained the following suggestion:

"It will be wise for employers who have foreign trade interests to employ agents in foreign countries who can pass them off as being of French or English birth. German agents and travellers will probably for some time after the war have difficulty in doing business not only in enemy countries but in neutral countries. There will undoubtedly be a personal prejudice against Germans that would probably make it difficult for representatives of German firms to do business. Although this prejudice will not interfere with German trade, as it will be merely of a personal character, it will facilitate trading transactions if employers will employ agents who can pass as French or English, preferably as Dutch, American or Spanish."

So this is the prospect we are faced with after the war. The meaning of this circular in plain language is this. So loathed and hated have Germans become outside their own country that no one will want to have any personal dealings with them after the war.

A large number of businesses are moreover, being secretly bolstered up with state aid. A condition of this aid is that the owners of the businesses receiving it shall agree to accept a considerable degree of state control over their business after the war.

This is part and parcel of a plan on the part of the Hohenzollerns to get the commercial classes thoroughly into their grip before the end of the war, and so minimize the chances of a revolution.

These men who have agreed to accept aid now for their businesses, and state control after the war, have received notification from the foreign trade department to the effect that, with proper organization, Germany ought to recover her pre-war trade three years after peace is declared. Here is the Hohenzollern method of redeeming promises. We are to get back our pre-war trade three years after peace is declared, and to do this we must submit to have our trading transactions controlled and supervised by the state.

Can any German to whom such prospects are held out by the emperor fail to see that he has been bamboozled and humbugged and fooled into supporting a war from which the utmost we can hope to gain is to come out of it without national bankruptcy?

During the meal have the doorbell ring and let the maid bring in a telegram to the hostess. SAVING MONEY FOR THE PEOPLE.

The action of Secretary McAdoo in taking over the express business of the country is commendable from every point of view. It is for the interests of the shippers, and the whole public of the country. It ought to have been done many years ago, but like many other improvements it could be brought about only under the stress of war.

The private express company was always a misfit, from a business standpoint. Like the Pullman Sleeping Car company, it was a sort of parasite upon the transportation business. There never was any legiti-mate reason why the railroad companies should not operate sleeping cars, and that at a fair and reasonable price, instead of having the traveling public "held up" for a second expense for a service which belongs as legitimately to the business as does the running of the cars themselves. And further the express business could likewise be conducted just as well by the railroad company as to have a second company come in to bleed the public. But so it was, that the express company stepped in as a middleman to collect an extra profit—and an enormously fat one.

And this was not all. One middleman would have been bad enough, but the public had to pay profits enough to support half a dozen of them. The small city of Xenia at one time had three express offices at the same time, with three agents, three delivery outfits, three bills for rent and office expenses. We just as sensibly might have had three postoffices. The big companies used to cut amazingly big and juicy melons for their stockholders. Express profits were so big and so worth protecting, that for fifty years it was impossible to get a parcel post law through Congress.

The recent action of the government completes the nationalization of the whole business of common carrying. The first step was when Uncle Sam entered the parcel post carrying business, as a competitor of the Express companies. And my, how they did fight that movement in Congress.
Now your Uncle takes over the express business, merges all the existing companies, and will handle their combined business. In short Uncle Sam hereafter will carry everything that is carried, from a sawlog to a love letter, and he will do it exclusively, on his own terms, for the greatest good of the public, and for nobody's profit.
Don't you see the saving in expense
there is bound to be?

The express business is not what it used to be before the parcels post law.
The old melon patch, which used to bear such luscious fruit, has not flourished in recent years. Many express offices have been closed, and the express business has been rather thin picking compared with the good old days. Since the government thus spoiled the business of the companies, it is only fair to their stockholders that the government should complete the job by buying them out on fair terms.

The public has a right to demand the best possible service, at the lowest possible cost, and that is a combination that nobody but the government ever will, or ever can give. Transportation, whether of goods, passengers or intelligence, is a public function and should be carried on by the government, in peace as well as in war, and it is to be hoped that it never will be handed back to private hands.

GREENE AND CLARK
COUNTIES TO BE 100
PER CENT COUNTIES

"We hope to make Greene and Clark counties, 100 per cent counties in the enrollment of registered nurses for the Red Cross," said Miss Anna Johnson, public health nurse, of this city, who is chairman of the Red Cross enlistment work for Logan, Champaign, Clark and Greene counties.

The following registered nurses in this county have enrolled for active service, but only one, Miss Matilda Evers, has thus far received her badge number from Red Cross headquarters.
Miss Evers, Miss Edith Porter, Miss
Beatrice Norckauer, Miss Mary Elam,
Miss Mary Booth, of Wilberforce,
Miss Alice Jobe, of Yellow Springs,
Mrs. Ada Rountree Joiner, of Wilberforce, and Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass, of this city have enrolled as instructors.

THE GREATEST FLEET.

The U-boat raid in American waters has only emphasized the vastness of our shipping resources. The loss resulting from this sudden onslaught was only a drop in the bucket, and was virtually balanced by our new construction for the same period. The sinking has almost stopped now, and the launchings are coming faster than ever.

There is no longer any question of our soon having the greatest merchant fleet in the world. We already have 7,000,000 tons of ocean shipping.
Chairman Hurley says the production
this year will exceed 3,000,000 tons.
Next year he expects our shipyards to turn out over 13,000,000 tons, more than Great Britain, the supreme shipbuilding nation of the past, has ever built in five years. Year after next, he says, we shall have 25,000,000 tons.

That will be a far larger fleet than Great Britain ever had. It will give us the leadership in world transportation.
It will give us access to all the world's markets and sources of raw material.

The power thus gained will not be abused, any more than our military power will be. As Chairman Hurley says:

"American ships will serve humanity loyally and unselfishly upon the same principles of liberty and justice which brought about the establishment of this republic. The vast merchant fleet we are building must become the greatest instrument of international probitry, honest and square dealing at the close of the war. It must become the vast and vital machine whereby America will prevent the oppression of the weak by the strong, the crushing of right by might."

THE RAINBOW'S MESSAGE

AWNING ORDINANCE IS INTRODUCED AT COMMISSION MEETING

Two ordinances aimed at sidewalk and street obstructions, such as merchandise displays and awnings, were read for the first time at the regular meeting of the City Commission, on Thursday night.

The two ordinances, which will create a flurry of interest, were introduced by Commissioner-Mayor Arthur Whalen. One ordinance regulating the use of streets and sidewalks in the city, makes it a misdemeanor for any merchant to maintain merchandise, goods or boxes, crates, etc., on the sidewalk and reveals the old ordinance, passed in 1903 which permitted the use of five feet of a sidewalk by a merchant for display of his wares.

The ordinance does not affect steps or permanent obstructions. A fine is provided by the ordinance of not less than $10 or more than $50 and costs, and each day that the obstructions are left in the street after the ordinance goes into effect, shall be a separate offense.

The other ordinance, aimed at awnings, makes it unlawful for any merchant to maintain an awning which sticks out over the sidewalk a greater distance than eight feet, or is less than seven feet in height from the sidewalk. This ordinance makes the offense a misdemeanor and provides a similar penalty to the first ordinance.

There was no comment on the ordinances.

The ordinances providing for the sprinkling, cleaning and sweeping of second streets were all read for the second time and passed unanimously.

A resolution was also passed providing for transferring certain funds from the service to the general fund.
An amount of $461 will be transferred by the resolution.

The matter of congested pedestrian traffic on Saturday nights and times when there are crowds in the city, was discussed and the manager was advised to instruct the police to keep the crowds moving.

BIGAMY CHARGE MADE AGAINST ELMER JACKSON

Chief of Police Canaday returned from Kokomo, Indiana, Friday morning, with Elmer Jackson, white, who was being held by authorities in the latter city, and who has been returned here on a charge of bigamy.

With a wife in Kokomo, from whom he has never been divorced, and a wife here, also, it is alleged that Jackson left here a week ago last Monday with the wife of another man and has since been in Kokomo. They were arrested there on a charge of adultery and stood trial, but were discharged for lack of evidence, but before he was released by the Kokomo authorities Chief Canaday was notified and he made a flying trip to the Indiana City, returning Jackson on the other more serious charge.

It is charged that Jackson, whose home was formerly in Indiana, was married and has a wife living there named Ada Jackson. They were separated, but never divorced. It is further alleged that Jackson came here and on July 22, 1916 was married to Grace Mowdy of this city, whom he has since lived with. The crime of bigamy, then, was committed at the time of that marriage.

Jackson figured in further domestic turbulence, however, when he is alleged to have gone to Kokomo with another man's wife of this city. The woman in the case returned on the same train with Chief Canaday and his prisoner, Friday morning.

Both allege that they did not run off together, but that they were going to Kokomo on a visit and each did not know the other was making the trip until they met on the train.

AUTO DRIVER IS HELD GUILTY FOR MAN'S DEATH

Clarence Black, employee of the Dayton Metal Products Company, is held accountable for the death of John Gentner by the grand jury which returned an indictment against him charging manslaughter shortly before noon Friday.

Black was the driver of the big automobile which struck and fatally hurt young Gentner while he was riding his motorcycle to work near Old Alpha, the morning of April 5. Black with a companion, was driving to the farm of H. E. Talbott, near Hellsbrook, when the accident occurred.

Gentner died two days later at the McClellan hospital, this city, to which he was brought by Dr. George Anderson, of Alpha.

Witnesses to the accident testified at the coroner's hearing that the big car was being driven at a very high rate of speed, although this was denied by Black who also testified at the coroner's inquest. Black is blind in one eye, and declared that he did not see Gentner until the bicyclist emerged from behind a small building which obscured the view. Glen Samples, also at that time an employee of the Dayton Metal Products company, who was with Black when the accident occurred, is now in the east. Harry E. Talbott and his son H. E. Talbott, Jr., testified before the grand jury Friday morning. Gene Powell, who is in charge of the garage for The Dayton Metal Products Company, also testified. The investigation opened Monday, but was continued until Friday owing to the fact that the Talbotts, father and son, were in the East. At the coroner's hearing Black, who is responsible for the death of Gentner testified that the car he was driving was the property of Powell. They were going to Talbott's farms to look after repairs on tractors.

Young Gentner was 24 years old, and had been married a month when he was killed.

The grand jury also returned an indictment charging bigamy against Elmer Jackson, who was arrested on that charge in Kokomo, Ind., and brought to this city. Jackson is charged with marrying Grace Mowdy of this city, July 22, 1916, while he was still married to Ada Moore, who became his wife in Kokomo April 10, 1916.

Never Give Up.

No matter how old you are you should never give up trying to better your best. The spirit to give up is by far a greater foe than years. When you think right and aim to materialize your thoughts it's wonderful what you can do. So root out the craven ideas of life and keep your eyes turned westward. Forget your years and tackle the young man's task. What you lack in freshness you will make up in good judgment. What you need is the attempt. Only when you make the effort will you really learn what's in you.—Pennsylvania Grit.

Shad Easily Taken.

The habits of the shad lend themselves admirably to the extermination of the fish. They approach the shores in immense schools, actually crowding one another in their efforts to reach the head of the fresh-water streams, where the spawn is deposited. Fishermen learned quickly how to intercept the run by nets in the bays and in the broad mouths of rivers, and the marketable shad are now nearly all caught in this way.

TOO TRUE

"Bridget, I feel so ill I wish you would not go out today. Couldn't you get what you're going for just as well tomorrow?"

"Faith, an' Oi can tomorrow or any day. I was goin' out to get meself a new job."

DRYING COSTS LITTLE.

Washington, June 28.—Dehydration, or drying of fruits and vegetables, urged now by the U. S. government as a food saving measure, costs but about 1-4 cent a pound.

The process reduces the products treated to from 1-7 to 1-15 original size; and leaves a practically non-perishable food, affected by neither heat nor extreme cold.

It requires no special container or sealing. Plain paper bags to protect against dust and insects, are the best and cheapest containers.

Re-hydration—restoring the water to the vegetable—requires from 20 minutes to two hours; and the reconstituted product has lost neither its original flavor nor its color.

IS HELPING SOLVE THE GAS PROBLEM

Prof. M. T. Bogert.

Prof. M. T. Bogert of Columbia University is now a colonel in the United States army and is at the head of a group of scientific experts who are helping General Sibert face the great gas problem—as regards both the production of gas as a weapon and the manufacture of masks to protect soldiers from mustard gas, which at present can cut through the masks used.

Facts About Ship's Speed.

A ship increases her speed more readily over deep water, but on the other hand, the faster a ship runs the more depth of water she requires to prevent the hindrance caused by the dragging influence of the friction which is always felt when the ship's keel "senses" bottom. Running ten knots an hour, a ship must have between 26 and 27 feet of depth, or she is dragged from below. If running 20 knots she needs a depth of 104 to 105 feet, and when running 30 knots she feels the drag over a depth of nearly 324 feet.

Would Not Tolerate Sedition.

By the act of the New York legislature of March 30, 1781, provision was made to punish more effectively adherents to the king. It enacted that anyone who preached, taught, spoke, wrote, or printed that the king of Great Britain had dominion in New York or who seduced the allegiance of anyone in the state was guilty of a felony without benefit of clergy, though the court could commute the sentence from death to service for three years in the navy of the United States.

Beware of Gathering Rust.

Any machine, neglected and left standing idle, soon gathers rust. As the rust accumulates it exercises a corrosive action. It eats into part after part of the machine, which presently is good for nothing. Had it been regularly used that piece of machinery would have lasted much longer. Idleness has been its destruction. So is it with the human machine.—Exchange.

Lloyd George Makes Statement

London, June 28.—Premier Lloyd George, in addressing commons last night, threw an interesting light on the arrangement under which American troops were brigaded with the British and French. He said it was done with the understanding that British recruits should replace the brigaded Americans as soon as possible, so the latter could be formed into American divisions.

WRITES GAS STORY WEARING GAS MASK

BY FRED S. FERGUSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With the American Forces in Picardy, June 5. (By Mail)—This is a story about gas, written with a gas mask on.

A flickering candle furnishes the light. It is night. Outside the roar of the regular artillery bombardment of the night can be heard. The light of the guns flashes across the sky. The hum of airplanes can be heard overhead in the moonlight, while an anti-aircraft gun over at the right barks in protest at the invading foe of the air.

The gas mask is not comfortable, but this is to demonstrate that your boy from home who may have to wear one is not helpless in it. The eye pieces—the windows—cloud up a good deal, but after taking your finger and carefully pushing in the side of the mask, the windows can be wiped. This must be done carefully, so there is no leak along the side of the face. The mask must remain tight and snug.

Breathe Through Mouth

The nose clip is on my nose, as I write. A rubber hose with a mouth-piece much like a football nose guard runs from the box respirator. If you can just forget about the mask, and breathe naturally, through your mouth instead of your nose, you get along in great shape. If you get fussy about it, there's likely to be trouble.

The secret of combating gas is to keep your head. When there is a gas alarm, a soldier is taught to put on his gas mask and keep it on. Well trained troops do not often suffer heavy gas casualties nowadays. The best the Boche can hope for is to impair their efficiency while they are wearing the masks.

Here is where I change paper in the typewriter.

I am making four carbons of this, so I have to take this paper out, count out five other sheets put the carbons in place and "reload" the typewriter. (Business of "cleaning the windows.")

Not Slow Work

It took me just a minute and a half to change paper, and the new sheets are in straight. I'll leave it to the copy editor if the typing of this story isn't just about as good as my copy written under normal conditions.

This mask is an absolute guard against gas. If you have it on properly and keep it on until the danger is past you are not going to be gassed. The Boche introduced gas, but the British brought out the respirator mask, and took away much of the frightfulness the Boche had planned. There never will be such a gassing as that of the battle of Ypres under present conditions. There is an element of surprise in gas within a couple of minutes after the first shell hits, he is not likely to be gassed at all if he takes the proper precautions as to putting on his mask and keeping it on.

Men work their guns in artillery positions with gas masks on when necessary. It isn't an ideal way to have to fire, but it can be done. I have just walked outside and had a look at a Boche airplane and the burst of anti-aircraft shells about it, and returned—with the mask still on. The "windows" are clear enough to enable me to see the black dot—the Boche—in the sky. Forty minutes have passed since I put on the mask and started this story.

FIGHTING UNDER TWO FLAGS

Note: This is the second installment of Pegler's story of the heroic American Legion of the Canadian army, with particular reference to two leading spirits of the legion, Lieut. Col. Richard H. Griffiths and Major Alexander Rasmussen. The third installment will appear Friday.

The crowning disgrace awaiting the soldiers of the American Canadian Legion in England. Soon after they arrived in a finishing-camp their colonel, formerly an American officer, was arrested on charges of embezzlement. Then the legion was pooled in a big military reservoir and there-by lost all chance ever to fight in the line as an American unit. Drafts went out to reinforce the Princess Patricia's, the 38th battalion and the R. C. R's.

Rasmussen and other brave men who have since been killed were willing to stake anything on the honor of the accused colonel. He was their friend—they believed in him, respected him and were sure that his fall was due to the political jobbery and jealousy of another American Canadian officer of high rank who had left the American army many years before.

A Dugout Officer
To this day that other officer never has been to the front except for an occasional "Cook Tour" of inspection. Rasmussen was bitter when I told him innocently one day last winter that the other was still safe in his dugout in London but claiming he had been wounded. "Wounded hell!" exploded Rass.

"Do you know where he got that wound?" The old liar!
"I'll tell you. He was wounded in the Battle of London—showing off his toy pistol to another embeusee."

His Chaplain mustache bristled out like a brunette tooth-brush.

Rasmussen finally got out to France as a machinegun officer in the Canadians. The American legion was only a memory. Even the name had gone out into the discard because President Wilson had made quiet intimations to the Canadian authorities regarding our American neutrality. All the Yanks retain to distinguish them from other Canadians was their modified American legion capshield with George Washington's coat-of-arms worked into a design with the Stars and Striped, and the motto, in Latin, "Deeds, Not Words." They dropped the words "American Legion" from their insignia and the old badges are extremely rare and command a high price from souvenir-hunters today.

Heroic Actions

Within a few weeks Rasmussen jumped into notice on a dark night when he personally led a raiding handful of merican Canadians against a German advanced post. His party was discovered by the Boche sentries in the front line but they scurried back under a sprinkling of machinegun bullets, bringing the out-post garrison as souvenirs. When they counted noses one American was discovered to be missing. Refusing volunteers, Rasmussen crawled back through the wire alone and found him wounded.

Just as he picked up the fallen lad a German hand grenade plunked in his shellhole. In a flash Rass seized it and threw it back, dropping flat in the same instant, to escape some of the fragments if it should go off too close by. The grenade blew up in midair, the explosion bursting one of his eardrums and a fragment wounding him in the arm. Then he picked up the wounded boy again and carried him back to the Canadian lines. The

DIDN'T CARE WHAT HAPPENED

"I became a physical wreck from stomach trouble and was a fit subject only for the operating table or graveyard. Being discouraged, I gave way to drink, which made things worse. I got so I didn't care what happened, and wanted to die. May's Wonderful Remedy has cured me of everything. Am now in fine condition and feel 25 years younger." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Youngster died just as the willing hands of his comrades reached out to take him from the major.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR CYRUS WILKINSON

Funeral services for Cyrus Wilkinson, former Xenian, who died at the Lima State Hospital for Insane, were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in the parlors of the Whitmer undertaking establishment.

The services were conducted by three different ministers, Rev. John White, Rev. Prouditt and Rev. H. G. Biddlecum, all taking part in the last rites.

Burial was made at Woodland, four brothers of the deceased being the pall bearers.

MOTORAIDS

Cleanliness in a garage is essential to the well being of a car. Next to that of cleanliness in keeping the car is most to be desired. The first of these two important points can only be secured when planning the building, and it is one that the owner will do well to look out for.

The draining of the floor should always incline toward the center and should be of a cesspool pattern. Below the opening, there should be a receptacle to catch grease and dirt and with a grit chamber. These should be carefully looked after so as to guard against any obstruction.

A good thing to keep the garage floor clean is a hot, saturated solution of common washing soda, which if wanted for use frequently, can be made up in large quantities and stored away. If this is done, however, the solution must be reheated to about the boiling point before using it. An old broom or brush should be used to spread it around.

For cleaning the body of the car, the use of needlessly strong alkali soap should be condemned. This with neglect to wipe off the soap and failure to dry the varnished surface thoroughly, is responsible for a great deal of injury done to a car's paint. As a matter of fact, neither soap nor water should ever be used on a car above the under side of the mudguard, except in cases where the mud is caked on the body in large quantities.

In most cases the first signs of wear of the painted portion show on the varnished surface of the engine bonnet. This is due to the fact that it is frequently covered with mud and is then washed away with soapy water, while the metal is still hot. Soap should not be used on the bonnet until it has cooled, and even then it should be carefully washed off. After a number of washings while the bonnet is hot, the injurious effect is quite noticeable and within a short period the car has to be repainted.

HOW THIS LITTLE BOY

Recovered Strength After Sickness.

Garrett, Texas.—"The measles left my little boy aged nine years in a very weak, run down condition—he coughed a good deal, and as medicines did not seem to help him, we finally took him out of school, and thought he would never be strong again. One day I read about the cod liver and iron tonic known as Vinol, and such a change as it has made in my little boy—it stopped his cough; he is now back in school, strong and well."—Mrs. E. A. Wright.

There is nothing like Vinol to restore strength, appetite and vim to pale, sickly children. We strongly recommended Vinol for this purpose. Sayre & Hemphill, and druggists everywhere. adv

New Dyak Fashions.

Dyak is a word which conveys to most folk the idea of a people whose tribal pastime consists in cutting of the heads of their neighbors and preserving the dried skulls as ornaments for their homes. When the first missionaries went to Borneo, where the Dyaks live, they were fortunate if they kept their heads on their shoulders. Today the Dyaks have ceased head hunting, have given themselves to farming and have taken on clothes and other evidences of civilization. Instead of news coming once a month, as it did when missionaries first went to Borneo, it is now received by wireless.

Getting by the Censor.

He wrote the fair one, who had been kind enough to try to give him all the information possible, and after acknowledging the receipt of the letter told her that unfortunately part of her news had been obliterated by the censor. In her reply she said: "Just tell me what part of the letter it was and I will write right away and tell you what it was."

Twenty Years Ago Today

Commodore Watson has sailed to join his squadron which is now waiting off the coast of Cuba ready to go to Spain. The fleet will seize the Canary Islands as a base and then attack the Spanish coast. The fourth expedition for Manila is now about ready to sail.

Ed McCreary, one of the force at the Pan-Handle depot, was placing a huge chunk of ice in the baggage car of a train last night when one of his fingers was caught, mashing off the end of it and making quite a painful injury.

"Camp Pumpkin" out on the Little Miami River, has been established by several Xenia boys. They are John Orr, Chester Lucas, Lawrence Wilson, Arthur Garfield, Albert Piper, William Harner and George Schlesinger. Mr. Charles Kelle, who was formerly in the gent's furnishing business here, arrived from Knoxville for a stay, but will return there shortly where he has a position as manager of a large clothing store. Mr. Ed Hunt who was also in Knoxville returned with him.

The work of harvesting Greene county's wheat crop is now under way. The crop ripened earlier than usual this year. The crop is reported good although the grain did not ripen as evenly as in some former years. The quantity is also up to the standard and one farmer estimates his yield at 30 bushels to the acre.

PICTURES JUST RECEIVED FROM ITALY SHOW TWO REASONS WHY AUSTRIANS SUFFERED BLOODY DEFEAT

Giant Italian field piece in hills back of the Piave; Italian advance posts on bank of the flooded river. The sudden flooding of the Piave river helped the Italians greatly in achieving their recent magnificent victory, but the huge Italian guns played their part, too. One of these guns is shown in the upper picture about to send a parting remembrance after the retreating Austrian forces. The lower photo shows the Piave as it appeared during the spring floods this year. A shell proof lookout and listening post is also seen, and in the foreground appears a trench mortar pit with a trooper manning a trench bombing machine.

EAST END NEWS

Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson, of East Church street, received the following letter from the Red Cross Society relative to the death of her son, Jesse, who was buried here yesterday:

"Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson, 617 East Church St., Xenia, Ohio.

"Dear Mrs. Simpson:

"You no doubt are in receipt of a telegram giving you the sad news of the death of your son Jesse. As he was unconscious at the time of his death, he had no suffering but also could leave no messages for his family. The doctors and nurses were untiring in their devotion to him and he was surrounded by hospital friends when he passed on.

For your personal loss there can be little consolation, but you can rejoice that you have been permitted to make this contribution to the greatest cause in which men struggle. In this moment of your grief there is nothing that we can say to comfort you, except to say that you have the sincerest sympathy of the American Red Cross.

Your son was a fine man, beloved by all his fellows, and will be sadly missed by them. In time to come you will learn to be very proud of the fact that he gave his life in the finest kind of service.

He did not get to the front but his will was as fine as that of those who will actually meet the Germans, and the example of patriotism that he gave will put his name always on the roll of those who gave their all for their country.

Yours sincerely, E. BECKWITH, Associate Field Director.

Miss Emily Pitts, the talented young pianist, is playing for the re-Making of a Nation at Xenia Opera House this week.

LARGE AUDIENCES ARE DELIGHTED WITH SOLDIER PICTURE

Secrets of Ohio's big soldier training camp, Camp Sherman, were disclosed Thursday afternoon and night at the opera house in the splendid feature "The Re-making of a Nation" which is being shown in the interests of the Red Cross.

Selectives from the time they are received at the Camp until the time they are turned out, soldiers in every sense of the word, were shown in the interesting movie, and in its course of instruction the lighter pastimes of the soldier were also revealed.

The reception of the selectives, the physical examination, the salute drill and the squads right formation, afterwards, the training trench warfare under the direction of French officers and their final review before Major General E. F. Glenn, were clearly depicted in the great motion picture, which is true to detail and both interesting and instructive.

Large audiences greeted all Thursday performances of the picture and voiced their approval of the picture. Only one show was given Friday afternoon at two o'clock and two performances are scheduled for Friday night, at seven and at eight-thirty. The picture is being shown for the small sum of 25c without war tax.

Oh, Dear, No! No, Maude, dear, just because a deaf mute talks with his hands is no reason why he should drown his sorrows in the finger bowl.—Philadelphia Record.

DISTRICT TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL AT SPRINGFIELD IN FINE CONDITION

The district tuberculosis hospital at Springfield, was never in such good condition as it is now, according to the opinion of Mrs. L. R. Robertson, of the Social Service League, and Mrs. George Haller of the Board of County Visitors, who attended a meeting of the district county visitors at the hospital Wednesday.

Dr. R. C. Richison of Yellow Springs who was made medical superintendent of the institution the first of the year and who took a course in the treatment of tuberculosis at a famous hospital in New York preparatory to taking up the work has worked wonders in the way of improving the hospital, according to the local women.

Not only is there a general improvement in the condition and appearance of the institution, but the changed aspect is particularly noticeable in its effect upon the patients, who are contented and very much pleased with their treatment and surroundings. The sanitary conditions are improved, the "shacks" made bright and pleasant, and patients who are able are helping their condition by tending little flower gardens before their "shacks." Dr. Richison is very popular with the patients and he takes an individual interest in each case.

The board of trustees recently, upon recommendation of the district visitors gave Dr. Richison authority to choose his own nurses and employ other help, and this has assisted in giving an harmonious government to the hospital.

Miss Agnes Kyle, a former Xenia woman and sister of T. Dales Kyle, is now head nurse at the hospital.

Mrs. George Haller was elected secretary of the District Board of Visitors at the Wednesday meeting.

FOOD NOTES

Supplied by Greene County Food Commission

SUGAR FOR CANNING

Latest advices from Washington make it imperative that there should be the utmost conservation of sugar. A few days ago, a letter was sent out limiting the amount of sugar, which might be bought on the canning certificate to 100 pounds.

Retailers are now directed to limit the TOTAL AMOUNT which a family may purchase for canning to 25 pounds to a customer at one time.

In cases where the 25 pound maximum is positively not sufficient to meet home-canning needs, families may purchase additional sugar—not more than 25 pounds at a time—provided written consent of the local Food Committee is secured for sale of each additional purchase.

THE WOMAN WHO CHANGED

By JANE PHELPS.

A BETTER UNDERSTANDING
CHAPTER CXXV.

I couldn't believe what George had told me—believe that I had heard aright. If I had, then my reasoning had been all wrong; Julia Collins had been all wrong.

"Do you mean what you said, George?" I asked, as I snuggled in his arms.

"Of course I do!" he smiled his answer. "What should I do with my money, my business, if we had no children to inherit it? Nice old Darcy and Joan, we would be, with no young things around to keep us from getting to be a couple of old cranks—I am to blame," he added, after a minute. "I don't know why, but in some way I have made you afraid of me—afraid to trust me."

"It was because you so often seemed displeased with me—so often cross, and impatient because I was different from your friends. Then you said you wanted to make me over. I tried to let you—tried to be as near like them as I could. I failed, I know, but I tried."

"Dear, I never wanted you to be like them, save in the things that would give you poise—would help you in holding your own in society. I have often been very proud when you did so." I remembered the look that I had seen upon his face, and could not account for. It had seemed like a certain prideful look, but I was never sure.

"Why didn't you tell me, when I pleased you? You always told me when I angered or annoyed you."

George Confesses His Fault.

"I'm sorry, Helen," he replied seriously, "very sorry, I thought that you knew me well enough to see when I was pleased. My only excuse is that I have done always what I thought right. I am a peculiar man, in some respects, a hard man, I expect," his smile softened the words, yet I knew they were true. "I have little patience with inefficiency in any one. But now we understand each other better," he said, as he put me back among my pillows, "and after this, we will talk things over together."

I did not say so, but I recalled the time that I tried to talk things over with him because Mrs. Sexton had advised it; and how he had flung from me in anger. But I had felt, then, that I was tactless. I must try to learn to wait until a time when I could talk without annoying him.

We talked a little more then George called the nurse and left me. I had not been so happy since the day I promised to marry him. I felt so relieved; so glad that he wasn't cold and hard-hearted as Julia Collins had made me think. I didn't flatter myself that he would be changed in every respect; he had said he was "a hard man," but never again would I let another woman—especially Julia Collins—make me so miserable.

It may seem strange that I was happy in spite of the fact that George had not refuted a single statement I had made when I spoke of his neglect—of his desire to be with Julia Collins—and the other things of which I complained; but I had lived with him long enough to know that what he had said—that little—meant more than much protesting would have meant from another man.

I improved rapidly, and was soon as well as ever. Mother had only been able to remain until I could sit up. Father was not well, and she had to return to him and the boys. Oh, how I hated to see her go! I knew her loving heart had been torn by what I had said in my first sickness—that she was uneasy and unhappy about me. So I had told her as much of the conversation between George and me as I thought necessary to quiet her fears. If I exaggerated some of the things he said, I felt I would be forgiven, because I did it so that she might not worry.

A Happy Convalescence

I was almost sorry when I was able to go out, once more—to take up my social duties again. George had been so uniformly kind, although as I got stronger, he went out a good deal. But he never failed to come home, first, and to see that I was comfortable. And, except a few times, he did not remain out late. He kept me almost smothered in flowers, and as soon as I was able to ride he came home early every afternoon and took me for a spin out into the country.

Sometimes we went alone, then, again, he would stop and get Evelyn Reeves and my little namesake—who had grown amazingly and was a lovely little roly-poly thing, good-natured and so cunning. Sometimes he would
